

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

The FCC is meant to act in the public's interest. It would not be in the interest of the public to loosen regulations that control monopoly like nature in the broadcast industry. Diversity in television, radio, and print is great. If you take that away we are coming closer to a big-brother society where the media controls our thoughts because that's what we will have with only one point of view for current events.
